Are emails your weakest security link?

You already know security is important, and you probably have your bases covered. But what about your emails? They're often an overlooked point of vulnerability, especially in home offices. Protecting your emails doesn't have to be complicated or time consuming. With just a tap, the Xerox® Connect for RMail® allows you to encrypt emails and attachments right at your MFP.

3 Million

records have been lost or leaked in published security breaches since 2013, with email being the most common method used by hackers. Of those records,

96% weren't encrypted. [1]

Email security is essential. Now it's simple.

With so many employees working from home and on the go, email security has never been more necessary. But you shouldn't have to choose between security and simplicity. The Xerox® Connect for RMail® offers the best of both worlds — comprehensive HIPAA and GDPR compliant protection paired with a seamless, time-saving workflow for capturing documents and sending them securely.
